Dean's Pipings

As I complete my term as your Dean I wish to thank all of you for your support and encouragement during these two years. Our Chapter is strong and we can all be proud of our efforts to fulfill our mission here in south-central Pennsylvania. I pray that you will continue to be involved, strive to bring others into our midst, and work together to continue the great work that we are called to do.

Shawn M. Dingrich

Spring Banquet

About thirty of our Chapter members and friends gathered at Trinity Lutheran Church, Camp Hill on May 10 for our annual Spring Banquet.

We thank Chuck Yocum for his efforts in planning the event, Cheri Distefano of Absolutely the Best Catering for providing the excellent meal, and Amy Yovanovich and Lou Ann Potter for providing the beautiful music for our delight.

At the event Walt McAnney received the door prize, copies of Mark Schweizer's books The Alto Wore Tweed and The Baritone Wore Chiffon, so called "Liturgical Mysteries" that are just hilarious to those of us who work in church music. See page 9 for some further information on these books.

Philadelphia Organ Quartet Wrap-up

We had a very successful program with the Philadelphia Organ Quartet on Wednesday, May 5 thanks in large part to the efforts of Alan Berlin. We sold 366 tickets. The event's finances are still being wrapped up. For a final report contact treasurer Kathy Gates 717-730-9326 or email <kmyers77@localnet.com>.

Thoughts from Our New Dean by Alan Berlin

I have just returned from Alumni Week at Westminster Choir College—a celebration of all things music. Every performing group on campus sang or played for returning alumni. Piano and organ students displayed their abilities. The whole three days was an immensely rejuvenating and rewarding experience.

Alumni also took time to celebrate the career of Joseph Flummerfelt who is retiring after 33 years on the faculty. Dozens of former students and acquaintances returned to campus to experience music once more with the man Leonard Bernstein called the "world's greatest choral conductor." Many eloquently spoke about how "Flum" inspired them to be the best musicians they could be. To learn all that you can, to crawl spiritually and emotionally into the music and make it your own, to be absolutely the best musician you can be and then take that to your choirs.

Each of us left campus with the profound sense of how important he and his attitude was to us. It also made me think about maybe who I have touched? Who have I inspired? Who wants to learn more about music because they have seen how much it means to me? Sometimes I get so engrossed with the minutia of running "the program" that I forget why I'm doing what I'm doing. Does this truly glorify God and the Church?

During these summer months I challenge each of us to take time to recharge our musical and spiritual batteries. Read a book, take a walk, visit a museum, listen to a concert. Take time for yourself and what is most important to you. The job will wait. The Church will wait. I know God will wait for God's time is eternal. You owe it to yourself and the people you inspire. Soli Deo Gloria.

Harrisburg Chapter 2004-2005 Season Starts Early: Member/Student Recital August 29

Organ Teachers: Prepare your students NOW to play in a recital set for August 29, 2004, 4:00 PM at First Lutheran Church, Carlisle.

The next program season will include two member/student recitals. The first is scheduled for Sunday, August 29, 2004, 4:00 PM, at First Lutheran Church, Carlisle. Don Golden is our event organizer and will arrange members to perform. Call or e-mail Don for details, and to reserve a spot on the program: 717-766-0157 <orgelmeistereins@msn.com>.

The second recital is planned for Sunday, April 10, 2005, 4:00 PM, at St. Stephen's Cathedral, Harrisburg.

Member/Student recitals are important to our goal to educate and encourage young organists, and to build enlightened and enthusiastic audiences. So, let's start to promote the first event on August 29th!

Time to Grow!

by Doris Savage, Membership Chair

At the last Board Meeting, I was asked to write an article about a method that the members-at-large can utilize to foster new relationships and thereby gain new members. Past history has proven that mass mailings are not the way to generate new members. It seems far more direct, perhaps even daring, to make a personal contact. The word “ambassador” popped into my head and so I went to Webster where it is defined as “any personal representative.” That’s what all of us can be. We can affirm our affection for our chapter in an amiable way, if we aspire to add to our fold. How do we do this?

Invite an organist that perhaps you know from a neighboring church, or any organist you may know who is not a member, to one of our fall events: the student/member recital in late August, the organ crawl to Lancaster in October or a Saturday morning organ workshop in November. If you just don’t know anyone to ask, BE BOLD, and phone a church and ask for the name and phone number of their organist and make a contact!

If in the process of describing our Chapter and our upcoming events you have a prospective member, please contact me by phone 717-697-4042 or e-mail at <dlsavage@att.net> and I will see that they get an application. Don’t forget the non-musician enthusiasts who can be asked to be a Chapter Friend.

Let’s target June to October as our “growing months.” If each of us does his / her part in this effort, the Chapter membership can and will grow!

Membership Renewals for 2004-2005

It is time to renew your membership for the 2004-2005 year. The official membership year is from July 1, 2004 to June 30, 2005. Everyone should have received a membership renewal application with the May Bombarde. Please be sure to complete the bottom portion of the form to ensure that the Chapter’s membership records are accurate. You can also retrieve a renewal or new membership application from our Chapter’s web site at <www.harrisburga.com>.

Congratulations to the first seventeen (17) memberships already received. Filing your membership application early will save the Chapter the expense of mailing a reminder notice later this summer.

National Headquarters would like the membership process completed no later than August 31st. Current members subscriptions to The American Organist Magazine (TAO) continue through November 2004. Members whose renewals are not reported by September 1st may not receive their December and subsequent TAO’s on time.

When writing your check for the membership fee, please consider adding an extra amount designated for the Shenk Scholarship Fund or the General Operating Fund. Did you know that only about 40% of your annual dues stay with the Harrisburg Chapter? The remaining 60% goes to National headquarters to support their activities including your monthly subscription to The American Organist magazine. We rely on the small percentage of your membership dues to provide good programs and workshops for you throughout the year. Please consider giving a little extra this year.

Remember to invite your organist friends to join the Chapter. New or renewal membership applications can be obtained in addition to the web site by calling Doris Savage at 717-697-4042 or e-mailing her at: <dlsavage@att.net>. Also, if you have changes to report to the directory information, please contact Doris.

Share Your Experiences

If you attend a convention or workshop this summer, please share your experiences with your colleagues in future issues of the Bombarde. Contact Shawn Gingrich for further details. See page 10 for submission information.

The Curtis Organ—Felix Hell

It's a grand, lush instrument with 161 sets of pipes—10,731 pipes in all—that can mimic the swells of an orchestra, the blare of loud trumpets and yes, even the strains of a church organ. The organ was built in 1926 by Austin Organ Company, its Opus 1416, for the Sesquicentennial Exposition in Philadelphia, which commemorated the 150th anniversary of the signing of the United States' Declaration of Independence.

The remarkable instrument is also, literally, inseparable from its home in the Irvine Auditorium. The pipes, which range in size from the width of a pencil to 32 feet long, are hidden behind large panels; the vents that carry air to the pipes run through and beneath the building. When it is played, the organ's sound fills the vaulted ceiling and all of the nooks and crannies of the dramatic Gothic structure. "The building is ideal for the organ, even if it's an odd layout for other things," said Paul Marchesano, administrative assistant in the Department of Chemistry and a consultant in pipe organ restoration. "The organ just uses all the space. They're never going to come apart."

For this, Marchesano is grateful. Thanks to an extensive renovation of both Irvine Auditorium and the organ in 1997, the Curtis Organ Restoration Society formed by fans of the instrument in 1973, no longer needs to exist. As Irvine's ornately painted walls were being restored seven years ago, Marchesano, IT Support Specialist in the School of Medicine and organist Nikola Sizgorich and Associate Vice Provost Max King watched three truckloads of pipes leave for Hartford, Connecticut, for renovation, unsure if they would survive.

But they did, and with a donation from William Brown the organ was able to get a much-needed facelift: Brown paid for a new console—the part of the organ that sits onstage. The original console, which sits in the lobby of Irvine, had fallen into such bad repair that organists had stuck pieces of tape on many of the switches that controlled the pipes as a warning that they didn't work properly.

Made of rich mahogany, with a crest pattern that is mirrored on Irvine's walls, the new console begs to be played by world-class talent, such as Felix Hell who will perform at 7:30 p.m. on June 12. Marchesano, Sizgorich and King's goal is to raise money to bring organists to campus and promote the organ's use in campus ceremonies. "In the past 10 to 15 years, there's been a great renaissance in symphonic organ programs," said Marchesano. "It's all good for us here at Penn. This organ is a wonderful, romantic, symphonic instrument."

It's high-tech, too. Tucked in a drawer in the new console is a computerized touch screen with a hard drive that can record and save performances—almost like a deluxe player piano. When an organist pulls intricate combinations of knobs on the console that correspond to particular sets of pipes, he or she can save that combination in the system.

The second-largest organ in Philadelphia (the largest is Lord & Taylor's Wanamaker Organ), the Curtis Organ will "vibrate your body," said King. The historic gem, built in 1926, is one of about 300 cited from the past 350 years by the Organ Historic Society.

The organ has brought these enthusiasts in contact not only with each other, but with fans from other places, as well. "The organ has a way of doing that to you," said Marchesano. "You either become a fan or you're not moved. It's not a wishy-washy instrument."

For information and tickets for the Felix Hell concert, contact the Annenberg Center at 215-898-3900. Donations to help promote the organ may be sent to: Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Max King, Office of the VPUL, 3611 Locust Walk, Philadelphia, 19104-6222.

Pipes in Proximity

by Shawn Gingrich

St. James Presbyterian Church on Orr's Bridge Road in Mechanicsburg was founded in 1986 meeting in various locations including the American Legion, West Shore Bridge Club and Mt. Zion United Methodist Church until it was officially chartered and their building was built in 1989. Interestingly Chapter Member Esther Long served this congregation as keyboardist in these early years.

At the same time the building was being built Raymond Brunner was restoring a William H. Davis Tracker organ from ca. 1840—1850. On the back of the music desk written in pencil it says "Wm. H. Davis, Maker, 67 Macdougall St., New York." According to the 2003 convention book from the Organ Historical Society, "two significant factors suggest a construction date of the late 1840s to early 1850s: a simple Gothic-style case typical of the period and a 54-note compass. The organ originally had a 17-note pedalboard with coupler but no independent register."

Haddam Neck
Congregational Church

In 1987 Barbara Owen wrote: "The Davis organ was acquired second-hand by the Congregational Church of Haddam Neck, Connecticut in 1875 or 1876, but its original location and date is unknown . . . The Haddam Neck church got an electronic [organ] in 1954 and the insides of the [Davis] organ were salvaged by a local organ man, Dan Eustler, who sold same to Cleveland Fischer in 1955."

Cleveland Fischer moved the organ to Manassas, Virginia into a room in his family's hardware store. A few years later the organ narrowly escaped a fire, suffering only water damage. Under the keyboard, Fischer recorded: "This organ was miraculously saved from complete fire damage on Saturday night 21 February 1957 . . . Flames completely destroyed the Hoss Television shop next door to the Fisher Hardware store. There was only a thin 3/4" wall between the Hoss room and the organ." At some point Fischer began work to add two ranks (a 1 3/5 and a 2 2/3) a Zimbelstern device, and a 32-note pedal board with a 16' Bourdon on a tubular-pneumatic chest.

Later the instrument was moved to the home of Ben Faidley in McLean, Virginia where it received new stop labels and replacement of the original 4' flute (several octaves of which were missing) with a similar rank from an 1851 Erben.

Later the organ was sold to James Baird of northern Virginia and then in the mid 1970s Rev. Claude Hughes of Enola, Pennsylvania acquired it. In 1989 Rev. Hughes engaged Raymond H. Brunner of Silver Spring, Lancaster County to store the instrument and do work which included: designing a new oak case, furnishing a vintage pedalboard, addition of a 16' Bourdon for the pedal and a new rank of pipes—Twelfth (2 2/3). The estate of Rev. Hughes donated the organ to St. James Presbyterian Church for use in the new building. The bench used is from the 1869 Jardine Organ that was located at York Hospital. The case that surrounds the instrument was built for this installation and includes 15 "dummy" facade pipes painted robin's-egg blue with gold faces.

The story of this organ is quite interesting as is the experience of playing it. The pipes breathe right in your face and the room is a very nice sounding board. The biggest challenge in playing this organ is the placement of the pedals. When the organist positions himself in the center of the keyboard the pedal that lies under foot where the second C usually is located is the first A—quite a surprise. Everything is about a third lower than would be expected. After a bit of adjusting and constant attention to foot placement it is possible to play with a bit of accuracy. In this modern building it is delightful to find a charming historic instrument.

I thank Barbara Hughes for all of her help and her willingness to meet me and share this instrument. I also thank Rick Zentmeyer for taking the photos of the organ.

In future months if there is an organ that interests you please consider writing about it. This column is open to other authors!

Shenk Scholarship

The Shenk Scholarship Fund was established in August 2001 with a generous gift given to us by Melvin Shenk from the Violette I. Shenk memorial. Violette, Melvin's mother, was a first cousin to Violette Cassel for whom our student competition is named.

The Shenk Scholarship was set up to promote and encourage the study of organ to interested students throughout the Central PA region. The Executive Committee approved the scholarship to be used for organ lessons to qualified students.

In the summer of 2002, we funded lessons for two students, last year we had eight students who received organ lessons and this year we are awarding nine scholarships for lessons. Shelly Moorman-Stahlman has agreed to teach the organ lessons to each qualifying students again this year.

The balance in the Shenk Scholarship Fund is currently $3,215. More than half of that balance will be used to fund this year's scholarships. We ask that you consider supporting this great opportunity to educate future organ students by giving to the Shenk Scholarship Fund. We have collected towards this fund throughout the year at several AGO events. We appreciate your support.

2004 Shenk Scholars:

Chelsea Barton (age 13)
 Ryan Brunkhurst (age 11)
 Greg Doerfler (age 15)
 Joseph Gribb (age 13)
 Elizabeth Jostenski (age 14)
 Sara Lenton (age 14)
 David Neagley (age 17)
 Christine Rowehl (age 14)
 Caleb Sisak (age 14)

Yocum Scholarship

In June 2003 a scholarship fund was established to honor Chuck Yocum on his retirement from Faith Presbyterian Church in Harrisburg. The scholarship was established to honor Chuck's commitment to the AGO, and to acknowledge the respect he holds with our membership. Chuck designated the fund to benefit students wanting to attend Pipe Organ Encounters (POE) in the summer months.

Last year we sent one student to the New York City POE and the experience was very beneficial. This year we awarded scholarships to two students, Brittany Jones (age 18) will go to Decatur, Georgia in June and Kaitlyn Tomlinson (age 18) will go to Worcester, Massachusetts in July. We are very pleased that this scholarship avails funds to continue this important outreach to young organists.

Executive Committee Meeting Report

The Executive Committee met May 11, 2004 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Camp Hill.

Some highlights of the business discussed are:

- Ellen Hunt reported on the two Program Committee meetings that had been held since the last Board Meeting. The preliminary report appears on page 2 of this newsletter. A program budget of $1,900 will be requested. Looking ahead, the Program Committee intends to invite David Cherwien to do a Workshop and a Hymn Festival on the weekend after Easter in 2006.
- Following the acceptance of the Programs, the Projected Budget for the year 2004-2005 was presented by Chapter Treasurer Kathy Gates. The projected expenses totaling $5,000 were approved.
- Shawn Gingrich noted that there were nine students who applied for summer organ lessons, and two who desired to go to a Pipe Organ Encounter event. These scholarships were approved to be awarded from the Chapter Scholarship funds.
- Alan Berlin is researching the Chapter's non-profit status. He will consult with several attorneys and come back to the next meeting with more information.
- Chairs of Committees represented on the Board were re-appointed as follows: Pierce Getz – Professional Concerns; Robert Lau – Education; Mary Jane Nelson – Publicity; Doris Savage – Membership; Kathy Gates – Editorial Board; Tim Koch – Placement.

The next meeting of the Executive Committee will be held at Trinity Lutheran Church, Camp Hill on August 10, 2004 at 7:00PM. All Chapter Members are invited to attend these open meetings.

Mark Schweizer—Liturgical Mysteries

by Chuck Yocum and Shawn Gingrich

Set in St. Germaine, a quiet little town in the mountains of North Carolina, where everyone knows everyone, Mark Schweizer's first two "liturgical mysteries" star Hayden Konig, full-time police detective, part-time Episcopal choirmaster and aspiring whodunit novelist who writes of the hilarious mayhem at St. Barnabas Church.

Schweizer's first book, The Alto Wore Tweed, takes place during the Advent/Christmas season and is seasoned with music not necessarily understood by non-church musicians. It tells of the "real-life" of Hayden Konig as police detective who is called to solve the mysterious murder of St. Barnabas Church's sexton Willie Boyd. At the same time, Konig is writing his first novel which he shares in installments with his choir members for fun Sunday morning reading.

In the second installment titled The Baritone Wore Chiffon, a call is received from a friend at a Cathedral in England, and this story goes back and forth between the two countries. It takes place during the Lent/Easter season, with many hilarious happenings.

Anyone who has read these books will surely recommend them to Church Musicians. Beg, Borrow, or Buy them - But most of all enjoy reading them. Both books are available from St. James Music Press, Hopkinsville, Kentucky, 877-822-0304 or online at <sjmp.com>.
