From the Dean:

WOW!! What a memorable afternoon at Trinity Lutheran Church, Camp Hill on Sunday, March 2! Every seat was filled, our colleagues performed wonderfully, and the audience responded with great enthusiasm. It was an appropriate tribute to Pierce Getz. Gene Getz attended, and called to thank me especially for the beautiful flowers we presented. (Look for a photo by Mary Jane Nelson in TAO).

Now on to Sunday, April 13. Let's fill every seat in the United Methodist Church of Hershey! The program will be of interest to handbell choir conductors, choral conductors, and organists – or to friends who support us by being listeners. Shawn Gingrich is one of the "pillars" of our chapter. He has been Board member, Dean, Education Chair, Editor and Publisher of the Bombarde, etc., etc. AND his handbell ensemble is outstanding!

A ballot to vote for officers and board members will be included in the NEXT Bombarde for anyone who cannot attend our year-end event Tuesday, May 20 at the home of Karen Appel.

Many of you know that Karen Appel has been hospitalized in Maryland following triple by-pass surgery. She and her husband were spending a few days at the shore when she was stricken. We all wish you well, Karen, and we're praying for your speedy and complete recovery. God bless!

Faithfully,

Ellen

Getting to Know . . .

. . . Brenda Helwig

First Lutheran Church in Carlisle has quite an asset in one of its members, Brenda Helwig, just as I'm sure the Harrisburg Chapter of the AGO will appreciate her love of music and openness to new ideas.

A registered nurse by profession, she had piano lessons as a child and also played violin and baritone horn in high school. However, most of her experience has been in choral music. She has been singing in church choirs since her teenage years and has been a member of the Chancel Choir at First Lutheran for the past forty years! She also plays in the handbell choir.

Brenda says she is an organ student, having started lessons with Rev. Steven Middernacht, director of music at First Lutheran, about eighteen months ago. After her husband's death several years ago, she had a lot of time on her hands. She is also retired and felt she had plenty of time to practice, so she returned to one of her earliest loves in life, music. She says that learning to play the organ has filled her life with so much joy, and that it is a thrill to hear all the wonderful sounds whenever her hands touch the keyboard! "I don't think I'll ever get tired of it", she writes.

In addition to practicing, Brenda also does volunteer work at First Lutheran. She is an avid reader and enjoys sewing, knitting, counted cross stitch and flower-arranging, having worked in a greenhouse for a number of years. Like all good grandmothers, she enjoys attending her grandchildren's musical and sports activities. She and her late husband spent many happy years camping when their children were young. Brenda has three children, two daughters and a son, and seven grandchildren, three girls and four boys, Her companion is her cat, Sophie.

Among her fondest recent memories, two stand out for her: the first is of the two weeks spent in England with her son and his family when his job took them there for a year. The second is a musical milestone for her: the first church services she played at First Lutheran in August of 2007 – a red letter day! And just two months later in October, she played in the AGO Recital.

I always close an interview by asking for 'words of wisdom' for others who are in or new to the church music field. Here is how this very humble and wise lady answered:

*"Since I'm very new to the organ,
I need "words of wisdom" from all of you!"*

We welcome you to our group, Brenda, and wish you continued happiness and success in your new organ career.

When You Need a Substitute (revisited from 8/2005)

Compiled, edited and collaborated by AGO substitutes

The person making the call, i.e., church musician, secretary or other representative of the church, should identify the name of the church, location and number of services (with or without communion) and time of service(s), and fee to be paid. An emergency telephone number should be given to the substitute to use in case of illness, snow emergency, etc. The person making the call should be able to give the name of the organ and whether it is pipe or electronic and how many manuals and ranks.

Also mentioned should be the church office hours for establishing practice time. Is the organ available for practice on a Saturday?

Because of the demands for a substitute, quite often he/she may play at a different church of various denominations each week. Respect for the substitute by the church musician should be a consideration in the planning for the worship service. Will the choir sing an anthem or will the choir just be asked to support the organist in leading the worship in song? Please think carefully before adding any other groups to the music, i.e., soloists, bell choirs, children's choirs, etc.

Hymn numbers and liturgical setting, if applicable, should be given at the time of the phone call or email, or no later than one week in advance in a separate mailing.

Will organist direct the choir? If so, give time of pre-service rehearsal and location. Provide anthem no later than one week in advance. Will there be a soloist? If so, soloist needs to contact the substitute and arrange a time to practice.

Indicate what day bulletin is printed and whether titles of prelude/offertory/postlude are to be included in the bulletin. Will prelude be played before service starts or after announcements are given and how long should the prelude be in length? Arrange for a bulletin to be on the organ prior to the service.

If changes are made, it is important that the substitute is notified ASAP (surprises can sometimes be a problem for the organist and subsequently the church). Even if someone other than the church musician makes the contact, the church musician MUST also let the substitute know details related to playing the service (any uniqueness, etc.)

Courtesies when arriving to practice:

- Take him/her to the organ; show where key is kept or where switch is to turn on
- OR: make certain organ is unlocked; if locked, leave instructions where to find key
- Turn on lights/offer to turn on heat/AC
- Tell location of restroom
- Offer to give a key for practice during off office hours
- Give location of choir room, if applicable

Payment is expected prior to the time of the service. If playing for a longer period of time (consecutive weeks), an agreement regarding payment must be arranged between the substitute and the church.

P.S. Cut out or copy and tape this to the organ and give a copy to the church secretary!
